

Marta Donovan

Marta is a Registered Professional Biologist who currently works as a botanist in Victoria, where she manages information on the status and distribution of plants at-risk at the BC Conservation Data Centre. The BC CDC is a part of NatureServe, an international network of cooperating CDCs and Natural Heritage Programs that all use the same methodology to gather and exchange information on the threatened elements of biodiversity.

Marta will be leading the Comox Valley Rare and Endangered Field Trip on Thursday, May 12th at 1:30. Location is yet to be determined, but Car Pool maps will be available at the Registration Desk.

Article about Marta on Tidechange.ca

<http://tidechange.ca/2015/01/10/comox-valley-nature-hosts-conservation-lecture/>

Comox Valley Nature Facebook entry

<https://www.facebook.com/820688924658305/posts/820714611322403>

B.C. Conservation Data Centre Website

<http://www.env.gov.bc.ca/cdc/index.html>